New System to Replace Victoria's Cluster Lights

Eight new street-lighting units of the most efficient incandescent street-lighting system now available are ready for installation in downtown Victoria immediately, Ald. W. H. Davies, chairman of the street-lighting committee, announced today. Orders are in for 12 to 18 more of the units which will be placed on 25-foot standards designed by Kenneth Reid, city electrician.

The matter of the complete reconstruction of Victoria's outmoded cluster light system will be brought before Monday's city council when Ald. Davies will report on his two-day visit to Vancouver where he and Mr. Reid inspected several blocks of installations similar to those proposed for Victoria.

It is estimated that the new lighting system will give more than three times the illumination of the present system, Ald. Davies said, but it will cost no more for power.

The increased illumination is achieved by the use of large reflectors at the top of the lighting unit, and prismatic reflectors on the street-side of the glass shade. A built-in deflector prevents the light from lighting up the front of buildings, throwing all illumination on the street and road where it is needed, they explained.

Mercury vapor lighting is the only form of street lighting that is considered more efficient than the new proposal, Mr. Reid said, and it is very expensive to install. However, the new units could be refitted for mercury vapor lighting in the future, if a change is desired.

DOUGLAS STREET FIRST

The first installations will be along two or three blocks of Douglas Street, and possibly some isolated residential areas where present lighting is very bad.

Hurley Flies to U.S.

CHUNGKING (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Patrick Hurley left for home today in a transport plane which combined its diplomatic mission with transportation for a soldier summoned urgently to the bedside of his mother.

The Ambassador had called on Madame Chiang Kai-shek Friday night to bid her farewell. Mr. Hurley left without comment on evidently well-founded stories that he is prepared to make a favorable report to President Truman on the basic agreement—actual or impending—in the Chinese Central Government's negotiations with Communists.

Butchers Rushed As Meat Strike Looms Monday

With no reply to their telegram sent Thursday to Hon. J. L. Isley, requesting suspension of meat rationing for 30 to 60 days, Vancouver Island Retail Meat Dealers' Association remained firm today in its decision to strike Monday.

A. Wheeler, secretary, said all members of the association would close their shops in protest against the rationing order. Final plans for the strike, he said, would be made at a meeting in the Coast Hardware Hall, 1418 Douglas Street, tonight at 8.

"Except for the chain stores and two others," said Mr. Wheeler, "all the butchers are together on this strike. They feel strongly about it and are anxious to have the situation cleared up. Our customers also approve our action."

He added that temporary removal of livers, hearts, kidneys and tongues from the list of rationed meats might benefit the public, but that butchers would still have the trouble of rationing.

"While it was rationed," said Mr. Wheeler, there was very little demand for that type of meat."

Meanwhile butchers in both the city and outlying districts reported big crowds anxious to use up their valid coupons flocking to their stores. By 10 this morning housewives were jostling one another in crowds two and three deep before meat counters.

It was announced definitely today that meat departments of the department stores will open as usual on Monday. Also remaining open will be meat departments in chain stores and Cross' four markets.

Ald. Davies declared that vandalism in Victoria had achieved an all-time high with it being literally impossible to keep some areas such as Ross Bay cemetery lighted because breakages were so high that replacements could not be obtained. He has hopes that the new higher standards will cut down breakage materially.

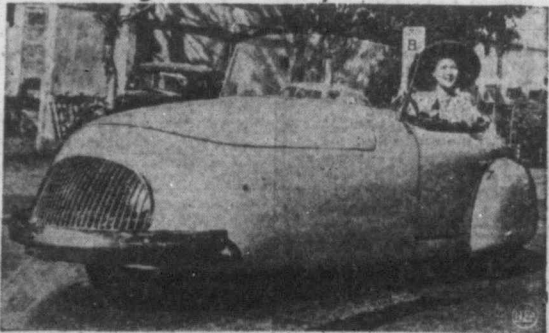

With regard to financing the new installation, Ald. T. W. Hawkins recalled that when the old light system was scrapped in 1937 the saving to the city had been $18,000 a year since that time, and he had proposed that one-third of this be put in a sinking fund to pay for a completely new system sometime in the future.

Had this suggestion been followed, $72,000 would now be in a fund which would have more than carried the business district installation.

Meat Dealers of Halifax Protest

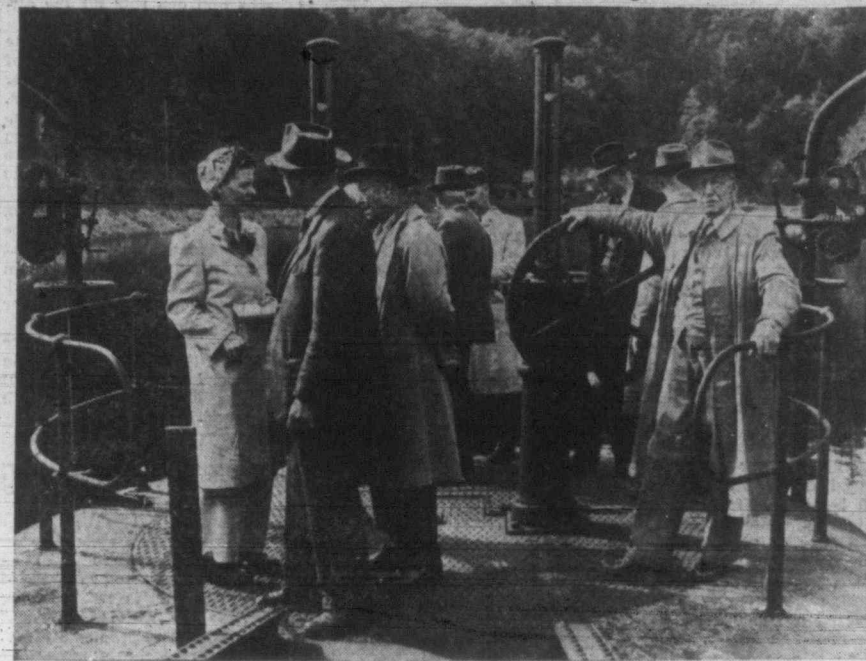

HALIFAX (CP) — Terming modification of the meat rationing regulations, as announced Friday by Finance Minister Isley, a slap in the face, meat dealers in Halifax and Dartmouth this morning claimed the changes will not mean a thing, and they plan to call a protest meeting shortly, probably Monday, to discuss strike action.

Does Victoria's Water Need Chlorinating?

Members of the Anti-Chlorination League, together with members of the City Council, and city officials, are seen above as they look over the water at Japan Gulch Friday afternoon. The party spent four hours inspecting the chlorination plant at Japan Gulch, Cabin Pond and Jack Lake. Seen above (left to right) are Mrs. Helen Tooth, Times reporter; Ald. J. A. Worthington, Ald. H. M. Diggon, Ald. Ed. Williams, E. Gropp, sanitary inspector and Ald. F. G. Mulliner and Harry Langley and John Day, members of the Anti-Chlorination League.

Here Harry Langley explains to the party some point about the chlorination of the water as the party looks at the machinery, which was installed by the Dominion government when the Japs threatened this coast. (See Page 15 for story.)

MacArthur Demands Account Of All Japanese Financing

TOKYO (AP)—Gen. MacArthur today demanded an accounting of all Japanese financial dealings from the day of the attack on Pearl Harbor to the present, including those of the Imperial Household whose chief tenant, the Emperor, reportedly has no intention of abdicating.

A member of the Royal Family, Prince Fumimaro Konoye, said there was "absolutely nothing" to Washington hints that Hirohito would quit the throne.

Lt. Gen. Kenji Doihara, Japan's top military field commander, meanwhile went to work as usual at the Japanese War Ministry, despite an order for his "immediate arrest," issued by Gen. MacArthur, Friday, but not immediately transmitted to either Allied or Japanese arresting officers.

Two additional directives were passed on today to the Nipponese government. One called for the arrest of Nobuyuki Abe, former Governor-General of Korea, and the other demanded complete demobilization of the Japanese naval police force before Oct. 31.

Vice-Premier Konoye told correspondents the constitution prohibits the Emperor abdicating but he added that Hirohito might step down from the throne in event of illness. In that case, a regent would serve until Hirohito's death, then the Crown Prince would inherit the throne.

The procedure followed in the case of Hirohito's father in 1924. In addition to a report on the books of the Emperor and the government, Gen. MacArthur asked for the amount of money held by banks, insurance firms and all other financial institutions, lists of directors and top executives of all firms dealing in big money, and lists of all their heavy investors.

The scientific section of the Allied staff needs the financial reports to block, if necessary, use of Japanese money in a manner inimical to the objectives of the occupation.

Must Regain Trade Chikuhel Nakajima, Minister of Commerce and Industry in the Japanese cabinet, said in an interview that his country must re-establish trade with the United States before even the bare essentials of life for its economy can be produced.

Shortage of Nurses In B.C. Worse Now Than Ever Before

An unofficial survey shows the shortage of nurses in British Columbia is worse than ever before—there are not enough nurses in the province to take care of hospital needs, and the situation is becoming more acute.

The survey showed: Because of the shortage sick people are being refused beds in hospitals which they should have.

Whole hospital wards are remaining closed because of the lack of nurses to operate them.

Beds in maternity hospitals lie idle at a time when the birth rate is noticeably increasing.

Health standards of the province are being lowered by the inability of sick people to obtain hospitalization.

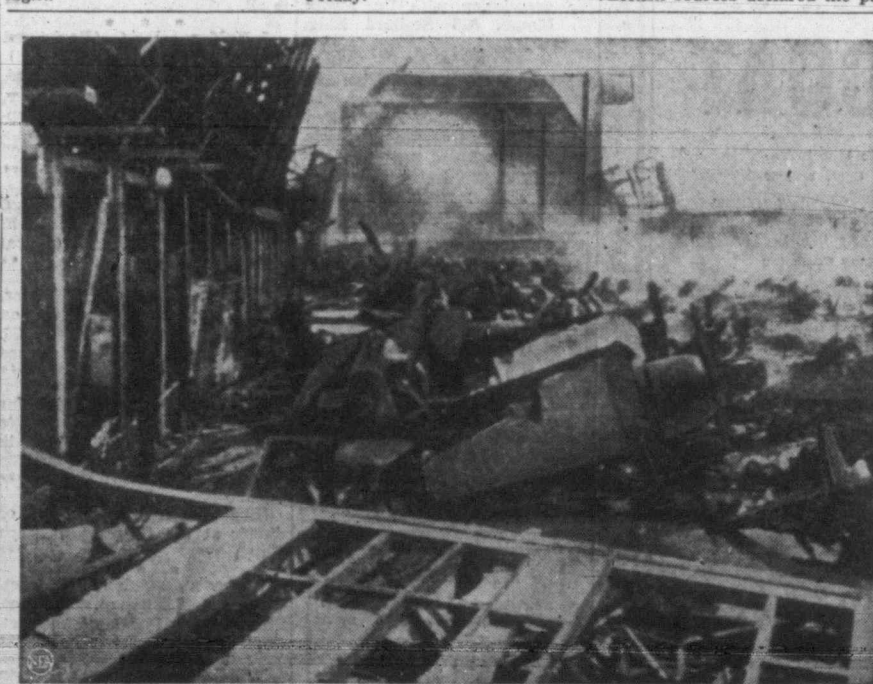

New hospital wings remain unopened, and will be kept closed until more nurses are available.

The situation is so bad at Tranquille, B.C.'s largest tuberculosis hospital, that there are less than 50 per cent of the nurses required on the job there. Instead of having a full quota of 60 nurses, there are but 29 on duty.

Few nurses leaving the service are returning to general nursing; many married women who acted as wartime nurses are leaving hospitals and other nurses are marrying and quitting.

Biggest Building Week Here With $361,258 Permits

Building in Greater Victoria soared to what is believed to be an all-time high for one week with permits being issued to the value of $361,258 during the past week.

The city of Victoria led with 80 permits being issued, value $282,193; Oak Bay came next with seven permits, value $40,815. Esquimalt issued two permits, value $22,525, and Saanich for the first time in many weeks, had the least building, issuing nine permits, value $15,725.

In the city the big jump was caused by the issuance of 57 permits to Victoria Housing Ltd. to erect the first group of the 150 wartime houses planned for veterans on Scott and Clavithorpe Streets. Of these 14 were for six-room houses, value $4,000 and the rest for 4-room houses, value $3,500.

Two large industrial buildings were also started, one a sawmill for Sidney Lumber and the addition to the Bank of Montreal, $26,500 and $23,500.

The seven permits issued in Oak Bay were all for dwellings. There were permits for a six-room $6,000 house at 207 Sunny Lane; a five-room, $8,965 house at 3035 Uplands Road; a five-room, $4,650 house at 2369 Dunlevy Street; a six-room, $6,500 house at 2965 Foul Bay Road; a five-room, $5,650 house at 1537 Hampshire Road; a five-room, $5,250 house at 944 Island Road, and a five-room, $5,800 house at 1918 Crescent Road.

Two building permits were issued in Esquimalt for construction and alterations valued at $22,525. There was a permit for $18,800 in alterations at 441 Lamson Street, where the house is being made over into nine apartments, and a permit for a four-room, $3,725 house on 873 Selkirk Avenue.

Nine permits were issued in Saanich during the week with a total value of $15,725. Three new dwellings accounted for $13,100 of this amount. The dwellings are a five-room house at 1501 Athlone Drive, $6,000; a six-room house on Cedar Hill Road, $4,500, and a four-room house at 2820 Foul Bay Road, $3,000.

Manitoba Bans Lotteries

WINNIPEG (CP) — Attorney-General J. O. McLennan announced today that Manitoba will allow no more lotteries. The policy, ending a wartime leniency, was made effective as from Friday.

OTTAWA (CP)—Procedure being followed in the drafting of terms for peace settlements in Europe is not particularly to the liking of the Canadian government or of the governments of the other Dominions, it is believed by informed quarters here.

This is understood to be one of the reasons why Prime Minister King wants to visit London soon for personal talks with Prime Minister Attlee, Foreign Secretary Bevin and other members of the new British government.

In the meantime, Mr. King's statement in the House of Commons Friday calling attention to the primary purpose of the foreign ministers' conference now meeting in London, is taken as a hint that the Canadian government reserves full rights to oppose, or change the character of any peace settlement drafted by the Big Five powers which does not meet with its approval.

The Prime Minister went beyond the scope of a question addressed to him by Progressive Conservative leader Bracken to say that he wanted no misunderstanding about what the foreign ministers' conference was. It was a preparatory body for drafting certain proposals relating to peace settlements, but had no authority to make the settlements. It consists of the foreign ministers of Great Britain, the United States, Russia, France and China.

May Consult With Other Governments

Under its constitution there is provision for consulting governments of other United Nations on questions which affect their interests. The first approach to such consultation occurred last week in Canada. Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India were among countries invited to express their views on the location of the boundary between Italy and Yugoslavia, a question which includes the allocation of the disputed port of Trieste to one or other country.

New Russia-Hungary Trade Treaty Surprise to British, U.S. Officials

LONDON (AP)—Foreign ministers of the Big Five canceled at the last minute today their scheduled morning meeting. Simultaneously a British official expressed deep concern over the disclosure of a Russian trade pact which, in the British view, would give Moscow control over half Hungary's economy.

Today's meeting had been scheduled to take up the Hungarian peace treaty. No official explanation was given for the cancellation. It appeared the ministers would not meet until Monday.

United States delegates at the council meeting apparently shared Britain's interest in the Hungarian trade treaty. Official British sources declared the pact was considered another step in what appears to be a Soviet campaign to hold a tight rein over the economic as well as the political life of all eastern Europe.

The agreement, which has been initiated and awaits Budapest's ratification, is said to propose founding Soviet-Hungarian combines for the development of steel, oil and other industries. Also said to be included are shipping on the Danube and Tisza rivers, airlines, trucks and motor traffic and a joint bank to finance mutual trade.

British delegates are consulting Washington on the development. No Russian comment was available.

Earlier, a reliable source had said Foreign Commissar Molotov had protested that the council's communiques had been too detailed and that too much information had leaked out of closed sessions.

This source said the Big Five agreed to meet his objections.

QUICK RESULTS

Results became apparent quickly. Friday night's communiqué said only that the Romanian and Bulgarian peace treaties had been discussed, with Soviet proposals as a basis, and that British and United States views were being considered.

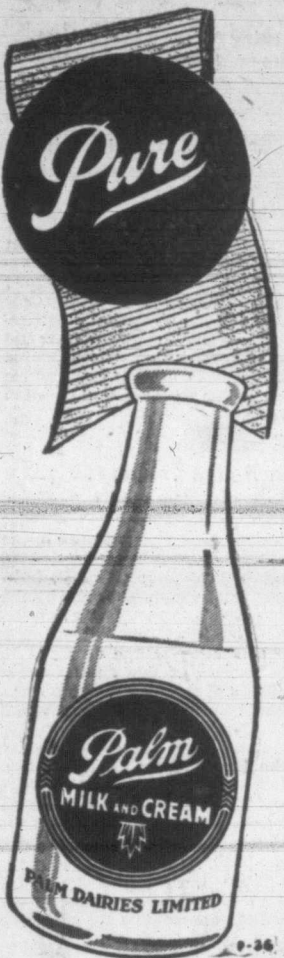

The ministers were scheduled to decide today whether the entire Bulgarian-Yugoslav border should be outlined in the treaty for Bulgaria or only frontiers on which important alterations are made.

There appears to be no hurry to finish the treaties and this session is expected to break up next week.

Windsors in France

LE HAVRE (AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor came back to France today amid indications their stay might be of short duration. The Duke intimated he intended to give up his Paris town house and his rented Riviera estate because they were "too big," and a source close to the Windsors said they had returned mainly to settle their affairs so they could move out of France.

C.P.R., Mortgage Corpn. Attack Saskatchewan's Mortgage Laws

REGINA (CP)—Attorney-General J. W. Corman announced today the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and the Dominion Loan and Mortgage Corporation have moved for the disallowance by the Federal government of three acts passed by the Saskatchewan legislature at its special session a year ago.

The acts are the Farm Security Act, the act to amend the Local Government Board (Special Powers) Act, and the Mineral Taxation Act. Mr. Corman said Justice Minister St. Laurent had advised the Saskatchewan government by letter this week that petitions for the disallowance of the provincial statutes had been filed by the railway company and mortgage association.

COMMITTEE NAMED

The railway is questioning the Mineral Taxation Act and the mortgage association is requesting a decision the farm security legislation and Local Government Board Act. A committee of the federal cabinet consisting of Justice Minister St. Laurent, Mines Minister J. A. Glen and Solicitor-General Joseph Jean has been set up by the Dominion government to hear the petitions.

The Farm Security Act provides that owners of farm land under a mortgage or agreement of sale will not in crop failure years have to make payments on principal, and will have the principal decreased by an amount equivalent to the year's interest. It defines a crop failure as a grain crop which realizes less than $6 an acre. The act bans evictions under mortgage from the farm home quarter-section of land.

SHARE CROP FAILURE

It consolidated existing legislation for the protection of farm debtors in Saskatchewan with the C.C.F. government's new farm security measures, and has been described by members of the government as a measure making it mandatory for the mortgagee to share crop failure risks with the farmer.

The act to amend the local government board abolished the provision that consent of the bondholders had to be obtained before principal and interest of debentures could be reduced. It empowered the board to cut the principal of debentures, lower interest rates, rearrange payments and cut tax levies.

The Mineral Taxation Act provides for imposition of a tax of 3 cents an acre by the provincial government on the owners of mineral rights and a holding tax on minerals in a "proven area." The holding tax under the act is levied up to a maximum rate of 100 mills to the dollar of the estimated value of mineral deposits in an area where mineral development is underway, such as the Estevan coal fields.

1 YEAR FOR APPEAL

The acts in question were assented to Nov. 10, 1944. The federal government has one year after assent to disallow an act, which means that if Ottawa decides to disallow one or all of the acts it must be taken before Nov. 10.

When the bills were debated in the Saskatchewan Legislature last fall Liberal opposition members voiced doubt of their constitutionality, but this is the first time they have been questioned elsewhere.

Dates under consideration by Ottawa for hearing the petitions are Oct. 11 for the Farm Security Act and amendment to the local Government Board (Special Powers) Act and Oct. 15 for the Mineral Taxation Act, but Mr. Corman said he had notified federal authorities that the provincial government cannot be ready on the dates mentioned, and that the time allotted for each hearing is insufficient.

Deny Woman Flier Earhart Still Lives

TOKYO (AP)—Recurring rumors that Amelia Earhart, long missing woman flier, was alive and a prisoner of the Japanese brought an official denial today from Commander Tonosuke Otani, secretary to the Japanese naval adjutant.

He said he had made a thorough check with the Home Ministry, foreign office and other authorities and there was no basis for believing Miss Earhart and her navigator, Radioman Fred Noonan, were alive.

Miss Earhart and Noonan were lost while flying from Lae, New Guinea, toward Howland Island in July, 1937, during a flight around the world.

Poultry From West To Be Canned in East

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—About 1,000,000 pounds of poultry, probably mainly from western Canada, will be brought to Prince Edward Island to be canned for shipment to Britain if present plans work out. W. A. Brown, chief of the federal Agriculture Department's poultry marketing and production branch, told a meeting of poultrymen here he hoped to conclude the contract before he left the province.

Producers estimated it would require about 200,000 live birds—figuring an average weight of five pounds—to fill the contract.

TRANSPORT CRASH—A few minutes after taking off from Fairfax Field, Kansas City, Kan., a new Douglas C-47 military transport plane crashed on a farm in Platte County, Mo. In this broken and burned wreckage 21 overseas combat veterans of the U.S. forces were killed outright, two others were fatally injured, and one was critically hurt. (NEA Telephoto.)

2 Men Questioned After Double Mishap

WINNIPEG (CP)—Two men were questioned here today by city police following a double accident Friday night in which two women, 100 yards apart, were believed to have been struck by the same automobile.

Phillip Harder of Winnipeg, alleged driver of the car, was still being held for questioning, police said, while his cousin, John D. Harder of nearby Steinbach, Man., had been released.

Mrs. Charlotte McConnell, 63, struck while crossing the street, suffered a fracture of one leg. Her condition is fair.

One minute later and a half block further south Mrs. Louis Sackton, 26, was hit while riding a bicycle. She suffered a leg fracture and her condition is reported as serious.

4 Killed in Crashes

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A navy plane apparently in serious trouble and being shepherded toward safety by three other navy aircraft, tangled wings with a guiding aircraft over midtown Miami Friday night, killing four crew members and causing a two-alarm fire in the business district.

Both planes were from the Melbourne, Fla., naval air station. Both were torpedo bombers. The troubled plane sputtered through the darkness over Miami beach, low over crowded resort hotels, attracting the attention of thousands of persons.

One plane plunged through the roof of a hardware company's warehouse, setting it and an adjoining hotel garage ablaze. The garage was used by the Coast Guard.

The other craft crashed in the street, splintered across a parking lot and struck the wall of the hardware warehouse, where it burned furiously.

Troop Ship to Dock At Quebec Sept. 29

OTTAWA (CP)—The troopship Nieuw Amsterdam, carrying 6,412 Canadian army personnel from overseas, is expected to arrive at Quebec on about Sept. 29, defence headquarters say. Previous reports said the ship would dock at Halifax.

Witness States Kramer Helped Catch Victims

ON TRIAL—IRMA GRESE

LUENEBURG, Germany (AP)—Dr. Ada Bimko, Polish Jewish doctor, testified today that Joseph Kramer, commandant of Belzen concentration camp, himself took part in catching prisoners who tried to escape death in the Auschwitz gas chambers.

Kramer would hit and kick prisoners because they were not quick enough getting into the trucks which were to take them to the gas chambers, the woman physician told the court trying Kramer and 44 of his associates on charges of killing and ill-treating prisoners.

Dr. Bimko, who survived internment at Auschwitz, said prisoners were loaded onto the trucks in the presence of Kramer and one of his fellow accused, blonde S.S. woman Irma Grese.

Maj. Eli Cranfield, cross-examining Dr. Bimko for the defence, asked, "do you swear that during the 15 months you were in Auschwitz, apart from gipsies, no person other than a Jew was sent to these gas chambers?"

"Yes," she answered. It was then suggested to the witness that only persons who were listed as ill and with a limited time to live were selected for the gas chamber.

Dr. Bimko said she had seen quite healthy persons who were on the camp's discharge list for the next day being sent to the gas chambers.

"One cold night a young woman from my native town cut a piece of blanket and put it on her shoulders. As a punishment she was sent to the gas chamber."

New U.S. Carriers Too Big for Canal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. navy's new 45,000-ton aircraft carriers, biggest warships afloat, are too hefty to pass through the Panama Canal. In order to reach the Pacific they must round Cape Horn or sail east.

Supplemental locks, begun before the war, but not completed, will eventually permit the carriers to get through the canal.

BERLIN (AP)—A German civilian who bought 176 packs of cigarettes from U.S. soldiers for the equivalent of $10 a pack was sentenced today to four months in jail.

LONDON (AP)—The Netherlands radio said today: "There are no cats left in Holland, and that in Limburg Province mice are playing havoc with crops."

Neutral Macao Untouched by War

HONGKONG (CP)—The tiny Portugal colony of Macao, only neutral port in the Far East during the war, eased through the conflict with hardly a scratch, visitors from the city said on their arrival here today.

A food crisis caused some deaths and one raid hit the air-drome area.

The small colony, pinned to the China coast a few miles south of Hongkong, became a haven for refugees from all parts of China. Thousands of persons from Canton, Hongkong and Kowloon squeezed into the port city where there already were 250,000 people—100,000 per square mile.

The movement from Hongkong to the "little Portugal of the Orient" became so great that finally Indians were banned from leaving Hongkong and authorities threatened to halt other nationalities.

One resident of Macao said the food situation became so bad in the second year of the war that "corpses were strewn the length and breadth of the city."

Aussies Not Handling
Japs With Gloves

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—The Australian army in occupied Pacific islands "is not handling the Japanese with kid gloves," Army Minister Forde said today.

He reported that Commander-in-Chief Sir Thomas Blamey's orders to subordinate commanders to apprehend Japanese responsible for atrocities were being carried out. He was unable to give definite instances of arrests.

Mr. Forde reiterated that contact also had been made with Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, Southeast Asia Allied Commander, regarding the rounding up of Japanese responsible for an alleged massacre of Australian nurses.

Mr. Forde added that as soon as Japanese responsible for heinous Nauru Island officials were in custody, arrangements would be made for their quick trial.

French-held Germans Getting Better Food

PARIS (AP)—The newspaper Figaro today quoted Gen. Louis Buisson, French director of war prisoners as saying the food ration for the 600,000 German captives in French camps "is just enough to allow a man to lie down, not move and not die too quickly," but there had been a recent improvement.

Under Geneva Convention rules Germany should dress its prisoners, Buisson said, "but there is no more Germany, and their uniforms are in tatters."

As winter approaches, France has one blanket for every five or six men, and beds also are lacking, he said.

Bert Howard to Leave Navy Press Service

OTTAWA (CP)—H. C. "Bert" Howard of Montreal shortly will resign as director of naval information and will be succeeded by Cmdr. William Strange, assistant director. It was announced here.

Mr. Howard eventually will go back to his old post as public relations director of Nesbitt, Thomson and Co. Ltd.

Meanwhile, he has been loaned to the National War Finance Committee for special work in connection with the forthcoming Victory Loan.

FAREWELL TO BACKACHE!

Her back ached—she felt miserable—no pop—she couldn't be "battered" to go out—lost contact with her friends and was lonely. Her sister advised her to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. C.C.F. to Support Government On Prog.-Cons. Speech Amendment

OTTAWA (CP)—An indication was given in the Commons Friday that the C.C.F. will support the government when the vote is taken on the Progressive Conservative and Social Credit motions of non-confidence in the administration.

Max Campbell, C.C.F. The Battlefords, Sask., told the House he would vote against both motions, moved in the form of amendments to the motion for adoption of the Throne Speech.

"Each of these amendments simply says the government has failed here or failed there or somewhere else," said Mr. Campbell, explaining why he would oppose the motions when the vote is taken, possibly Tuesday. He was believed to be expressing views that bore the sanction of his party officials.

The Progressive Conservative amendment accuses the government of failing to provide proper demobilization, housing and re-conversion plans. The Social Credit amendment simply adds that the government failed to meet the needs for a prosperous peace and also failed to provide the country with an effective and scientific financial policy.

FOUR STATE VIEWS

Mr. Campbell was one of four speakers heard during the continued Throne Speech debate. The others were Lt.-Col. R. H. Winters, Lib., Queen's-Lunen-burg, N.S.; Garfield Case, P.C., Grey North, Ont., and Rev. J. H. Matthews, C.C.F., Kootenay East.

Preceding resumption of the debate was Finance Minister Isley's announcement of the temporary removing of "edible butchers' offals" or fancy meats such as livers, hearts, kidneys and tongues from the list of rationed meats.

Mr. Campbell said the jockeying for world markets had led to the two great wars. Similar jockeying appeared to be in the offing. The situation would be even worse when liberated countries got into production.

Mr. Matthews, who spent 12 years as an Indian missionary, urged immediate revision of the Indian Act to make it conform with current requirements. He said the Indians should be given full citizenship rights without asking them to surrender any of their treaty and other rights.

Toastmasters' Club Gets Charter Here

Charter for the newly-formed Victoria Union Toastmasters' Club was presented to its president, George Wilkinson, by the international president of the club, Franklin McCrillis, at a special charter meeting held in the Y.M.C.A. Friday evening.

Besides members of the Victoria Union Toastmasters' Club, there were present members of the Victoria Toastmasters' Club No. 1, and Capital City Speakers' Club, and officials from the U.S.

The meeting opened with a welcome from Barrie Gault, lieutenant-governor of the district. Dinner was followed by a toast to "The King," by Harry Sparks, vice-president of the Victoria Toastmasters' Club No. 1, "The President of the United States," by Herb Rowland, vice-president of the Victoria Union Toastmasters' Club, and introductions by Mr. Gault.

Alex McCabe spoke of "The Place of Toastmasters in the Community." Speech was the most direct and important instrument of conveying thoughts and ideas, he said. He felt that, with the work facing reconversion and rehabilitation and needing men with ability to convey their ideas to others, there was "no better place to seek that leadership than in toastmasters' clubs."

Greetings to the visitors and a welcome to the new club were extended by Mayor Percy George, who is a member of the Capital City Speakers' Club. His interest in public speaking had been one of the main parts of his education, he said, and he felt public speaking would help one and all to attain their goal in life.

Presentation of the charter was followed by presentation of the gavel by Jack Harms, past president, Seattle chief, and district secretary of the organization.

OVER 300 CLUBS

Mr. McCrillis, in presenting the charter, wished the new club every success. There were more than 300 toastmasters' clubs in the world with a membership of 10,000, he said, and foresaw a great increase in the next few years. "If the principles of toastmasters' could be inculcated in everyone, we would never again have such a debacle as we have just experienced," he believed.

He hoped, that with the increase of clubs in B.C., the province would eventually be able to form its own chapter.

Mr. Wilkinson in his speech of acceptance of the charter and gavel, believed organized labor would benefit from such clubs. Foremost of shortcomings among labor men was lack of ability to express themselves in their beliefs, he said.

Greetings to the new club were also given by W. Paulin, Tacoma, lieutenant-governor of area three, John Scott, president of Victoria Toastmasters' Club No. 1, and Frank Hunter, past president of the Capital City Speakers' Club. Frank Paulding, who started toastmasters in Victoria extended his wishes for success to the new club.

New Safety Orders Effective Nov. 1

General accident prevention regulations, made under the Workmen's Compensation Act, and effected June 1, 1943, will be superseded Nov. 1 of this year by an entirely new set of regulations containing 1,134 clauses. The new regulations, made by the Workmen's Compensation Board following hearings last June 25 in Vancouver, were published today in the B.C. Gazette.

British Sailor Free Throughout Occupation

SHANGHAI (Reuter) — A British sailor, P.O. James Wilfred Cumming of Sheffield, managed to live in freedom in Shanghai throughout 44 months of Japanese occupation, in spite of thorough enemy searches.

He was a member of the crew of the British gunboat Petrel, sunk by Japanese gunfire off the Shanghai Bund Dec. 8, 1941.

Cumming, on shore leave, evaded the Japanese who captured his two companions, obtained civilian clothes, and went into hiding at the home of a pretty Russian girl and her family.

Last year he managed to make contact with Britons outside Shanghai and began working on behalf of British intelligence, unmolested by the Japanese, who thought he was a Russian.

Among other jobs, Cumming smuggled news, picked up on a secret short-wave radio, into internment camps.

Kaiser, Fraser to Make Cars at Willow Run

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry J. Kaiser, west coast industrialist, and Joseph W. Frazer, president of the Graham-Paige Corporation, have announced the formation of a $20,000,000 company to produce low-priced cars at the Willow Run plant outside Detroit.

Kaiser is board chairman and Frazer is president of the new Kaiser-Frazer Corporation. The Graham-Paige Company also will produce a new car, the Frazer, in the medium price field, he said.

Both "Kaisers" and "Frazers" will be full-sized, six passenger sedans.

New Information Organization Of United Nations Expands Field

By ROSS MUNRO
LONDON (CP) — A new organization, the United Nations Information Organization—called U.N.I.O.—is making a name for itself in London, and its reputation is spreading to the continent.

The organization, directed and financed by 18 countries, including Canada, operates in London and disseminates information on the aims and activities of the world's free people.

U.N.I.O. was formally constituted in May, 1941, by resolution of ministers, directors and other heads of official national information services. It grew out of the Inter-Allied Information Committee set up in September, 1941.

Membership is open to all the United Nations, and at present backing it are Australia, Belgium, Canada, China, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Britain, Greece, India, Luxembourg, Holland, New Zealand, Norway, Poland, South Africa, United States and Yugoslavia.

The work is undertaken here by a 25-member international staff and two Canadians are in the London office. Jon Farrell of Vancouver is in the press division, his responsibilities including editing a comprehensive weekly bulletin on international affairs. Mrs. Elspeth Young of Edmonton and Vancouver is librarian in the reference division.

The organization aims at being a forum for discussion of United Nations questions and at providing information on their common aims, activities and achievements.

It also acts as a clearing house for information on peoples of the United Nations, their comparative backgrounds and activities.

In addition to the weekly news bulletin, of which the Canadian army alone takes 3,000 copies, U.N.I.O. issues numerous publications ranging over wide field of subjects from war crimes trials at Nuremberg to the work of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

FILLING IN GAPS

As communications improve, more U.N.I.O. publications will be distributed on the continent, where the organization is trying, with background and interpretative material, to fill in the gaps the war left in the information available to European people.

While U.N.I.O. is doing a valuable job here now, it is felt that when the United Nations organization is established, the London office may be incorporated in a larger information office which would be one of the organs of the World Assembly.

British Naval Flier Resurrects Railway From Kowloon to Canton

By HAL BOYLE

HONGKONG (AP)—At Kowloon is the terminus of probably the longest railway network in the world, and the Kowloon-Canton branch of it has just been restored by operation through the enterprise of a Royal Naval flier, Lieut. Peter Morris, from the aircraft carrier Indomitable.

You can climb aboard a train there and travel continuously to Brest, France. You may need a lot of stamina and sandwiches to make the whole trip, but Lieut. Morris claims the first part, the 120 miles to Canton, now is safe as a church.

On his first day ashore, Morris noticed there was no activity around the camouflaged Kowloon railroad station. He scouted around and found three rusty locomotives, which he thought might be induced to go to work. Then he rounded up 50 Chinese mechanics, who soon had smoke puffing from the stacks with coal and wood Morris had scrounged. All this was done just out of Morris' personal curiosity.

"Who runs this railroad?" Morris asked after reporting the situation to higher British naval authorities.

"You do," they told him. So Morris began piloting his first railroad.

I asked him what previous experience he had in this line, and this chunky British "Casey Jones" said: "None." When I asked him what he had done in Stratford-on-Avon before the war he smiled, and replied with great complacency: "Nothing at all."

"I run the railroad on rice and coal," Morris said with a grin. "So far I have used 25 bags of rice to fill the Chinese workers, and 20 tons of coal to fill the locomotives. We've hauled in 2,300 Japanese prisoners from the interior of the colony, and delivered 310 tons of wood for Hongkong power stations."

I made a trip into the interior as a guest passenger, along with a group of British commandos, in the line's only luxury car. It has cloth-covered lounge chairs. The rest of the cars are ancient wood, shingled affairs with timber seats.

On the way back to our brake-man—a barefooted, bald-headed Chinese—dozed, and we would have crawled into a closed switch and piled up half of Lieut. Morris' rolling stock if the young officer had not given the alarm.

The Chinese engineer halted the train only two feet from the switch.

Such near disasters don't worry Morris—now. He has learned that calamities always threaten Chinese lines. He is going to keep his railroad empire intact, even if he has to put his Grumman Avenger on the tracks to furnish the power.

No Union Check-off

OTTAWA (CP)—A board of conciliation established to deal with a dispute between Bralorne Mines Ltd. of Bralorne, B.C., and its employees, has recommended against the check-off of union dues and maintenance of membership requested by members of the Bralorne Union No. 271, Labor Minister Mitchell announced.

In announcing receipt of the board's report, Mr. Mitchell said board chairman J. A. Grimmer of Vancouver and Edward Campbell of Trail, B.C., employers' nominee, had recommended against the check-off system and maintenance of membership because they considered the application in this regard premature.

In a minority report, Malcolm McLeod of Vancouver, employees' nominee on the board, favored inclusion of these two provisions in any agreement with the company.

60,000 Loggers To Strike Monday

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Demands for a $1.10-an-hour minimum wage having been refused, 60,000 Pacific Northwest Lumber and Sawmill Workers' Union members (A.F.L.) will strike at 12.10 a.m. Monday, the L.S.W.U. policy committee announced here.

In a statement which charged employers with failure to enter into negotiations, the union said the special policy committee had "failed to arrange negotiations with the employers," and that, therefore, "the industry-wide strike requested by the workers recently" was called.

A.F.L. operations in Oregon, Washington and parts of Idaho, Montana and California will be affected.

CHOKERMEN

Logging operations everywhere are calling for chokermen. Needing the minimum of training, this branch of forest work offers ambitious workers an ideal means of entering the logging industry at good wages. Chokermen today earn 83c an hour with the prospect of increased earnings as experience qualifies them for higher paid rigging jobs. Coast logging camps are clean and comfortable. The Coast logger is the best fed workman in Canada, and has a wide selection of food offered him at each meal. Shower baths, good beds and laundry service are standard facilities.

The Coast logging industry pays the highest wages of any Canadian basic industry. To ambitious workers it offers job security and advancement.

UNDER THE KID GLOVES

THOSE INDIVIDUALS WHO FAVORED the kid-glove approach to Japan after V-J Day, simply because the kid gloves concealed the knuckle-dusters which could be brought into use if necessary, seem to have a stronger case as military control expands. Recent developments indicate that Gen. MacArthur knew exactly what he was doing when he matched the "so sorry" technique employed by some of the elements in Nippon with a firm but cautious response. When he first made his way to Tokyo, neither he nor his lieutenants could have known how thin was the ice on which they trod. Until they were certain it would bear their weight, they rightly proceeded with care. Having assessed its strength, they may move more boldly without running the dangers which precipitate action might have created in the first days of occupation.

Today's demand for an accounting of all Japanese financial dealings since Pearl Harbor to the present, thereby arming the occupation experts with information on finances which may be required to check the use of Nipponese funds for purposes inimical to the objectives of occupation, follows several other steps to strengthen MacArthur's hand. Previously, newspapers have been subjected to sharp control when they failed to keep in line, and radio stations, disseminating velle propaganda for domestic consumption, have been closed down when their output was prejudicial.

More and more observers will be impressed by the advantages which have occurred from the relatively slow start and increased tightening of control on Japan. It has averted what might have been disastrous blood-spilling and is proceeding in a manner to destroy in its infancy the Japanese militarist-sponsored myth that the Empire of the Rising Sun was not defeated.

THE EIGHTY PER CENT VIEW

IN ITS CORRESPONDENCE COLUMNS yesterday this newspaper published a letter from the Honorary Secretary of the Victoria Division of the Women's Regional Advisory Committee of the Consumer Branch of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board on the subject of meat rationing. It said in part:

"We women, who do 80 per cent of the buying in Canada are very close to this problem, and we feel that rationing is the only fair method of enabling this country to live up to its commitments and at the same time make certain of equitable distribution of meats at home."

The communication pointed out that, through its 16,000 liaison officers, the Consumer Branch of the W.P.T.B. represents nearly 2,000,000 women in Canada, and also that these women's regional committees are staffed by volunteers who, in the national interest, are playing their part in maintaining price control and a fair distribution of consumer goods.

Public understanding of the need for meat or any other type of rationing will not be enhanced by clumsy humor or political partisanship. Judged by observations from some retailers and a section of the press, one would think that Mr. Mackenzie King and department officials at Ottawa are burning the midnight oil to discover new ways to irritate the people. Perhaps a local butcher epitomized the consensus among the majority of his craft yesterday when he said: "We're not in a position to know whether rationing is necessary or not, but the people in Ottawa should know what they are doing."

That is our view—regardless of the fine points of method. It may be that just as 80 per cent of the women of Canada do the buying and agree on what to their practical minds is essential control, so it might be argued that a large measure of the objection to this latest meat rationing order derives from political disappointment and lack of perspective.

STILL SHOOTING

PRAYERS OF THANKS FOLLOWED announcements that the shooting had ended in Europe and the Pacific. Indignation is aroused in many quarters over the shooting that is under way in the woods now the hunting season is on. But there will be nothing but praise for the "shooting" the British Columbia Government Travel Bureau photographers are continuing in some of the more attractive sections of this province. Combining a high sense of artistry with a definite appreciation of educational and entertainment values, that department is capturing on film many of the beauties that make this province an area of rich enjoyment for the tourist. The recently completed film of the P.G.E. railway will doubtless live up to the high standard of excellence achieved in other camera work.

To those British Columbians who would like to see more of their own province, but are unable to cover the ground taken by the photographers, the results of the latter's work is highly gratifying. While many of the films have been widely circulated, a more complete method of making them available to the general public would be greatly appreciated.

SPLIT IN BRITISH TORYISM

SPECULATION IS RIFE IN LONDON ON the prospect of substantially divided views among the Conservative members of the House of Commons in respect of some of the Labor government's policies. It is suggested that the line of demarcation now being drawn will place the old-time Tories on one side and the so-called "ginger group" of the Conservative Party on the other. Behind the leadership of Mr. Churchill will be ranged the former; and Mr. Quintin Hogg, son of Viscount Hailsham and an eminent barrister, will lead the adherents of the "Tory Reform Committee" which he founded a year or so ago.

This interesting development is the sequel to a private meeting of Conservative Peers, Members of Parliament and defeated candidates at which the leading speakers were the former Prime Minister and Mr. Ralph Asheton, chairman of the Conservative Party. It is understood that at the gathering in question both Mr. Churchill and the all-powerful official of his organization laid down an unequivocal policy of "uncompromising opposition" to the Labor government—opposition that would be "exercised against all legislation" proposed by Mr. Attlee and his ministerial colleagues. Mr. Hogg and his associates resent this attitude; they argue that "barren opposition" to what were "genuine reforms which the public demanded" would keep the Conservative Party in the political wilderness "for at least a generation."

A second Conservative opposition in the new House of Commons would present a ticklish situation to the Conservative hierarchy. But the spectacle of Mr. Churchill leading the die-hards—especially after his long fight against them in the years before he became Prime Minister—would be strange and almost humorous if one forgot the many times he has changed his own political label since he forsook the Tariff Reformers in 1903 and took his seat on the Liberal opposition benches. Not until Parliament reconvenes on October 9 is the "split" likely to manifest itself.

Some of the speeches which Mr. Churchill delivered during the recent election campaign revealed an extraordinary interpretation of the political mood of the people whom he led so magnificently through "their finest hour." Yet they reminded us of the tone and texture he used in his famous Manchester denunciation of the Tory Party 42 years ago—when he accused the followers of Joseph Chamberlain of almost every crime in the political decalogue. However, having saddled himself with the task of leading to the polls the followers of the two Prime Ministers who presided over the destinies of the nation from 1935 to 1940—Messrs. Baldwin and Neville Chamberlain—he began his appeal to the electorate under the heaviest of handicaps. By the written word, on the public platform, and in the House of Commons, he employed the bitterest of criticism in his efforts to reveal to the public the danger to which these men were exposing the nation by their failure to meet the German menace. Yet many Conservative members whom he is expected to lead in "uncompromising opposition" to the Labor government's policies are the same men who were elected under the Baldwin banner in 1935 and who supported Mr. Chamberlain when he defeated the opposition's no-confidence vote on May 10, 1940—by a majority, albeit, which showed the desertion of a substantial element on the ministerial benches, and too slim to permit of his continuance in office.

Doubtless much potential membership for the "Tory Reform Committee" had heeded Mr. Churchill's warnings and opposed Mr. Chamberlain on that fateful day more than five years ago. But, after all, it would be in keeping with the former Prime Minister's colorful political career that he should again go back to his old love. His legion of admirers, nevertheless, will be wishing that he had gracefully retired at the end of his great service to mankind, leaving the hurly-burly of purely partisan politics to a younger generation. In any case, his place in history is secure.

SUMMER ENDING

A POTENT ALCHEMY CHANGES THE golden happiness of sunlit days into melancholy at summer camp closing and then, with the passage of a little time, converts it once again into the pleasure of memory. Yet, though the season that has gone has been stored in the casket of retrospect, there is a sharp sense of loss in the first transition.

The boat that was new-christened in the lake early in the year, has been pulled up for the winter. It will return to the shore next spring and it will glisten with fresh paint, but the first thrill of its launching, the first pride-of-its quick passage will be gone. Rains will cover the little beach that slowly climbed out of the water as the lake receded. And though next summer it will emerge again, it will not be quite the beachhead of enchantment for the little boy who built small jetties there, because the little boy will be older. The springboard, which has been taken down, will be restored. But it cannot furnish the same triumph it gave the little girl on her first dive from it. The lights of morning and evening will shine again on the lake, as they did this summer, but the eyes which see them will have aged.

And the knowledge of change is saddening to those who leave the camp. The furtive, fated flights of red ants, which wing short lives and fall into the water buckets, describe the ending of the summer. The robins, marshaling for flight, cry nervously in notes that have lost their earlier magic. The soft vowels of an owl sound wistful in the evening, and a faint whistle adds a mournful tone to its haunting call.

Bruce Hutchison

THE FAILURE

MY FRIEND JIM ADAMS says he is going to spend the winter hunting cougars in the wilds of Vancouver Island. He doesn't think he will have any time to cut wood for the summer campers on our lake. Maybe he can tell one old tree, too big for me to tackle, but I'll have to cut it up. He won't do even that much for anybody else on account of he has some cougars to hunt.

Not that there is any money in hunting cougars. Jim will work about 12 hours a day, tramping through the jungle and sleeping wet in the bush all night and maybe he'll shoot three or four cougars and, with the government bounty and the sale of the skins, he may make $100 or so. But, as Jim says, look at the fun he'll have.

Now, of course, Jim is a reprehensible character in any society, the kind of man who does as he pleases and hurts nobody and enjoys himself. Society would disintegrate if everybody were like Jim and enjoyed himself. Society can only exist when everybody contracts to give up his happiness and not do what he likes.

FOR THIS REASON a dark view is taken of Jim by his successful neighbors. Jim had the same chance as they did but look what happened. While Jim is hunting cougars this winter one of his neighbors will be living in a fine office in Vancouver with a large fortune and a stomach ulcer. Another will be gambling in mining stocks and getting his third divorce. And one of the fellows who has a summer place beside Jim was once elected to the Legislature.

You would think careers of this sort would inspire Jim to better things, but he prefers to hunt cougars. It doesn't require much money for this sport if you have a dog and a gun. In fact, as Thoreau proved at Walden long ago, a man can live for a year on the product of six weeks' labor, provided he doesn't want too much.

BUT WHERE Thoreau only lived for two years at Walden on this Spartan diet, and then retired to town to write a classic about it and become immortal, Jim lives at the lake all the time and the world has never heard of him, though besides him Thoreau was an amateur hermit. Jim is too busy living to have any time for writing.

The neighbors were talking about Jim last week-end when they closed up their summer camps and went back to Vancouver. The rich man with the stomach ulcer said it was too bad about Jim. He said he had often offered Jim a good, steady job at reasonable wages in one of his industries but Jim wouldn't take it. The mining broker said he had offered to gamble some of Jim's money on the market and make a little killing for him, but Jim wasn't interested. He always had to spend what money he had on a gun or a dog.

THE TROUBLE with Jim, they agreed, was that he just didn't have the stuff of success in him. He didn't want to get ahead in life and probably it was too late to do anything for him. And yet, said the industrialist, what a waste of talent this was, for Jim had brains, was a skilled worker, read good books and was as honest a man as you could find. He had had as long a schooling as anybody else on the lake but while the others had gone to the city and made good, there was poor Jim at this moment on the beach painting an old boat and frequently pausing to look at the sky and breathe in the golden September sunshine.

No, they said, there was nothing you could do about Jim. He would die some day, just withering out painlessly in the sun, and he would leave nothing but a cabin, and a couple of worthless boats and two or three hound dogs who would miss him.

SO THE INDUSTRIALISTS and the broker packed up their expensive baggage. They locked their fine summer houses. They put their speed boats carefully away in the boat-houses. They rolled up their hammocks and gay sun umbrellas and for a few minutes they stood on the shore looking at the lake and the forest where the first maple leaves were beginning to fall. The broker thought of something else and got a bucket of water and poured it on the bed of summer geraniums so that they would keep alive a little longer, until the frost came, though nobody would see them.

Rather sadly, for successful men, they started up the trail to their automobiles, and paused for one last look at the lake. Then they drove back to Vancouver and their big homes, big industries, big fortunes and stomach ulcers. And there was Jim lying stripped on the beach, soaking in the sunshine and looking at the sky and planning his winter of cougar hunting.

SOMETIMES in the winter his neighbors will pause in the midst of their success, while drinking a highball in the Vancouver Club, and they will regret the failure that Jim has made of his life. And perhaps Jim will pause over his camofire, over a tin cup of steaming tea, and he will think the same about them.

THANK YOU, AMERICANS!

From the Edmonton Bulletin
Slowly and gradually the United States forces stationed in Edmonton and the North are being recalled to their home territory. In small groups and by special train these men who, during their period of service here have become a part of this community's life, are taking leave of us.

There have been occasional frictions and irritations. But the amazing thing is that these annoyances have been so small and infrequent beside the tremendous camaraderie that has grown up between American servicemen and the residents of Edmonton—a good fellowship that parting should not be permitted to weaken.

THE INTERNATIONAL SCENE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst

The vital and hotly debated question of how much military, naval and air strength shall be maintained in the Orient by the Allies—not only in Japan but in other strategic areas—isn't one which can be answered with any degree of security at this juncture.

Quite apart from defeated Japan, the whole Far East is in such a state of political ferment that it would take a major prophet to foretell what may be required.

If it were only Japan the Allies had to worry about, the position would be easier. But war's end has released over east Asia Pandora's box of ills. Political passions have been cut loose in numerous countries, and while any given situation perhaps might be handled easily by itself, the Allies must figure on the cumulative effect.

The most dangerous of all the cases—the threat of civil war in China between the Chinese Communists and the Nationalist Government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek—happily is reported to have eased greatly in the past few days. The authoritative Chungking newspaper Ta Kung Pao announces the government and the Communists have reached an agreement to co-operate, "on the basis of equal position" under Gen. Chiang for the reconstruction of China.

FAIRFIELD BUS SERVICE

May I through the medium of your paper make a suggestion regarding the operation of a bus service to the Fairfield district.

Some time ago a petition from over 2,000 residents in the above district was submitted to the mayor, in favor of the Blue Line, and a five cent bus service. However, as the city transportation committee decided we were to have the B.C. Electric buses, we are now denied the use of either services. I suggest, that pending the decision of the appeal court, that the two companies concerned, be allowed to operate a bus service in the district on alternate weeks.

ESQUIMALT, AUGUST, 1914

I wish to amplify the statement in your issue of Sept. 14 about a lieutenant being in command of the dockyard in August, 1914. About Aug. 3, 1911, Cmdr. W.

reconstruction of China.

The whole world hopes that this means a permanent settlement, but I think we must remember that until the cause of the fever has been removed, it may recur. There's a wide rift between the Nationalist Government and Chinese Communism.

Asia as a whole presents a situation that calls for maintenance of powerful and mobile Allied military strength. Not that one ally intends to intrude militarily in the affairs of another, but there must be a safeguard against flames spreading from one country to others.

Hose took over the command of H.M.C.S. Rainbow from Cmdr. J. D. D. Stewart. The charge of the Naval Dockyard was added to the other duties of Cmdr. Hose, so he had the use of an office on shore. He was also senior officer of Canadian naval vessels on the Pacific coast. When the old cruiser put to sea on July 30, 1914, to proceed south after the German cruiser Leipzig, Cmdr. Hose left Lieut. H. B. Picher in command of the dockyard, with Mr. T. Cox, gunner, as second in command.

Shortly after this Cmdr. E. D. Maude (ret. R.N.) was in command for a short period. On Oct. 4 Cmdr. J. T. Shenton was posted to command H.M.C.S. Shearwater II, and in charge of the dockyard. On Oct. 12, 1914, Rear-Admiral W. O. Story was posted to be senior officer, west coast.

This is given in detail in my "History of Esquimalt." I was on duty during August, 1914, at

To Honeymoon In Okanagan

Joyce Barbara, daughter of Mrs. M. A. Finch, 1627 Amphion Street was married to Gerald Alfred Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nelson, Viscount, Sask., in St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, Friday at 8. Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunn performed the ceremony.

The bride entered the church on the arm of Mr. J. Lennart, wearing a rose dressmaker suit with matching hat. She carried a white prayer book, topped with gardenias and white satin streamers.

Her only attendant, Mrs. A. C. Middleton, wore a turquoise suit, with matching hat and carried a colonial bouquet. CPO. Howard Smedley acted as groomsmen.

During the signing of the register, F. T. C. Wickett, the church organist, played "Ave Maria."

A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. Later, the young couple left for a honeymoon in the Okanagan, the bride traveling in her wedding suit with a brown topcoat and accessories. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Nelson will live in Victoria.

Founder of Girls' Club

MRS. J. C. GODMAN

pictured as she prepared to mail a parcel to "her girls" in London, Eng. Mrs. Godman returned to Victoria several months ago.

It was in 1941 when Mrs. Godman was receptionist at B.C. House. At that time there were no Canadian Women's Auxiliary services and Canadian girls who had crossed to England on their own were nearly all in civilian positions. Some did join British women's auxiliary services. A few were in ambulance work, civil defence units, nursing services, factories and child guidance clinics. All were isolated from each other and had no means of knowing how to get in touch, except through Canada House and B.C. House, where there was little time to worry over a few home-sick girls.

Mrs. Godman first tried keeping a record of names and addresses of every girl who came into her bureau at B.C. House. This was not enough. Even when a girl got in touch with a fellow Canadian by letter, there was still no place for them to meet, for London hotels and restaurants, expensive at the best, were 100 per cent worse during the war.

Finally, at the request of some of the girls, a club was formed. Mrs. Godman found an old 18th century house, three stories high, at No. 5 Suffolk Street, badly damaged by air raids, that might be used as a hostel. It was a stone's throw from Canada House and just off Trafalgar Square.

"We started on a shoestring," she says now, "begged, borrowed and 'scrounged' furnishings from everyone and everywhere. Even the tiebacks for the big curtains in the lounge had a history. They came from the silk lanyards that supported a German land mine."

"The club opened in May, 1942," she reminisces, "just six weeks after we found the building. There was no food canteen, for our ration permit was lost, some where in the War Office. Plenty of dirt still to be shoveled out and lots of repairs to be made."

Dorothy Dix

Dear Miss Dix: I am 18 years old, engaged to a girl of 17, but I find I don't love her. She is a very nervous type and if I break the engagement I don't know what she will do, or what will happen. Can you help me?
A. K.

Answer. A good way to break an engagement is just to let it die of inanition. Make your visits farther and farther apart until they stop entirely. Don't answer her letters the minute you get them. Make yours few and far apart. Begin stepping out with other girls. If you can make her angry, fine. She will break it off herself.

At your age and hers love is a pretty transient emotion, anyway, and it should be easy enough to wiggle out of an engagement if you will use a little tact.

Nursing Home on Gorge Road to Open Oct. 1

After many unavoidable delays owing to shortage of materials and labor, the Victoria Nursing Home, Gorge Road, will be opened to receive patients Oct. 1.

Because of the interest shown in the progress of the home by the public, arrangements have been made to hold "open house" on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 30, from 2.30 till 5.

The former Crow-Baker home, "Sissinghurst," has undergone considerable interior alteration and redecoration, and will be able to take 40 patients. It is being operated by the Victoria Nursing Society, and financed by the City of Victoria, the provincial government having given a grant towards the furnishing. Its primary purpose is to relieve the hospitals of congestion by taking elderly convalescents who need some nursing care but not hospitalization, and will thus meet a need which has been long apparent.

A fully qualified staff has been engaged to look after the patients and run the home. Provision is being made for occupational therapy, and the grounds have been put in order so that convalescents may enjoy their facilities.

The home has been attractively furnished, although the lounge and sunroom will require some additional furnishings, with which it is hoped the interested public will help.

Anyone having any articles of furniture which they might care to give is asked to get in touch with Mrs. Frances Barr, care of Welfare House, Pandora Avenue, or Mrs. A. S. Christie, Linden Avenue.

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

FUTURE of hockey on the Pacific Coast is a bright one in the opinion of Paul Thompson, former manager of the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, and now associated with the Vancouver club in the Pacific Coast League. Thompson is to spend a day at the horse races in the Pacific Coast League. In town to spend a day at the horse races Thompson informed me he holds high hopes for the success of the circuit that boasts eight clubs, four in British Columbia, Washington and Oregon and a like number in California.

THOMPSON, who has called his first practice on the mainland for Oct. 10, just 13 days before his club is scheduled to open its season at home against Seattle, figures to have a good squad. He has already lined up a number of first-class performers and has strings out for several more. Don't be surprised if some of the pucksters who played here in the former Pacific Coast Hockey Association turn out with Thompson. Discussing the future of the league Thompson pointed out the international competition as an added attraction. "One must not forget the tremendous popularity the California clubs have to draw from," Thompson said. "With major cities like Los Angeles and San Francisco in the loop there is no limit to the number of people our teams can attract. As far as players go it must be remembered there will be a lot of players in the N.H.L. who will be dropping out of the major circuit now that a majority of the stars are coming out of the armed forces. There have been a lot of boys up there only because of the war. They would never have made the big time under normal conditions."

WHEN the average fan turns out to watch a Canadian or American football team in action I'll wager he has no idea of how much it costs to outfit each player. Jim McCaffrey, business manager of the Ottawa Roughriders, came up with some interesting figures on football financing, recently, when tendered a $1,200 account for football boots.

WE COULDN'T get football boots in Canada," he acknowledged. "When we completed arrangements with a firm across the border the boots came to around $20 a pair, counting duty, sales tax, exchange and so on." McCaffrey estimates it takes more than $20 to equip a player for a game. He breaks the outfit down like this: Boots $20, sweaters $4.50 each plus $1.50 for numbers and crests; helmet $6, pants $3, hip pads $6.50, elbow pads $3 and shoulder pads $8.50. Operating expenses, equipment, traveling and sundries will cost Roughriders about $13,000, McCaffrey estimates. It costs $1,200 for a trip to Toronto, Hamilton $1,300 and Montreal $500. What about chewing gum? That takes money, too. "It's a terror what some of these football players charge for chewing gum," said McCaffrey. "Their regular bills for chewing gum have me so I can't look at the stuff now."

Burrards in Close Win Over Adanacs

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Burrards eked out a 14 to 13 victory over the New Westminster Adanacs here Friday night to take a 2 to 1 lead in the best-of-five Intercity Box Lacrosse League finals. Each previously won a game.

The game, riddled with penalties, was hard fought throughout. Each squad netted three goals in the first quarter and Burrards held a 6 to 4 edge at half time. The Vancouver club held their two goal advantage throughout the third to enter the last stanza leading 10 to 8. Adanacs pressed from the start of the fourth quarter and shortly after the seven-minute mark tied the count at 11 to 11. The New Westminster team went ahead 12 to 11 to lead for the first time, but a penalty to Bob Phelan proved their downfall and the Burrards got control of play, slammed in two quick goals while he was off and held the one-goal edge to the end.

Fourth game will be played at New Westminster Monday.

TROJANS WIN FOOTBALL

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two quick scoring thrusts Friday night gave the Southern California Trojans a 13 to 6 victory over the U.C.L.A. Bruins in a Pacific Coast Conference football opener before 89,000 fans in the Coliseum.

Mustangs Drop Grid Game to Angeles 6 to 0

PORT ANGELES, Wash. — Lone touchdowns by little Al Adams near the end of the first quarter gave Port Angeles high school footballers a 6 to 0 victory over Victoria Mustangs here last night. The game, played under the lights, ushered in the 1948 season and was a bitterly fought engagement all the way. A crowd of 3,500 attended.

Playing their first game the Victoria club took nearly a quarter to settle down and for the remainder of the tussle were able to hold off the home youngsters but could never get back those six points.

In the third quarter the Victoria team opened a determined offensive but were set back on their heels by a costly fumble. They never got close to the Port Angeles line for the rest of the evening. With just over a minute of play remaining Port Angeles gained possession on the Victoria nine-yard line but were unable to get over.

Adams, Max Giles and Lyle Nelson turned in sparkling exhibitions for Port Angeles, while Steve Rynoski, Jim Moonen, Bill O'Connell, Tom Joyce and Len Scott were outstanding for the Canadian squad.

Wright in Soft Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Chalky Wright kidded around with Humberto Zavala for a couple of rounds Friday night then went to work and galloped to an easy 10-round decision over the Mexican in Madison Square Garden. Wright scaled 132, Zavala 138.

In a bout put on as a last-minute substitute for the Tony Janiro-Johnny Greco go, postponed Thursday because of an ailment of Janiro, the former featherweight champion let Zavala "shoot the works" in the first two heats, then started sharp shooting, and from there on it was a soft touch.

Except for these two sessions along with the closing seconds of the eighth, when Zavala backed "The Chalk" into the ropes and fired a dozen punches which did no damage, and the 10th, when Zavala came winging out with a "desperado" attack trying to pull the fight out of the fire, it was all Wright.

They'll Do It Every Time

Sivewright-Sundquist Star

Aboard Five Winners

With Victoria's 14-day race meeting approaching its end Monday, another good crowd of punters was on hand Friday for the seven-race program. Track was muddy and heavy following the previous day's rain and the thoroughbreds who like the soft footing dominated.

Jockeys Jimmy Sivewright and Johnny Sundquist, who do their riding under contract to "Doc" Darbyshire, did everything but sweep the card as they got down with five winners. Sivewright had three winning mounts while Sundquist put two across the wire on top.

Sundquist started the procession in the opening heat over a mile and 70 yards when he kept Bill Lochead's 12-year-old Bob Jack close to the pace-setting Ascot Gal and won in the drive to the finish. Favored Wild Deer took the show money. Bob Jack returned $11.80, $5.50 and $2.70 across the board.

Overhauling the tiring Sunny Park in the stretch, Gallamar, the longest price on the board, won the second over six furlongs and 30 yards. The winner paid off at $15.15 for a $2 nose wager. Sundquist came through with his second winner in the third, Trip Over was claimed by Bill Lochead for $800.

aboard Darbyshire's Camp Guide, the odds-on favorite. A photo was necessary to split the winner and the fast-closing Bridge City.

Fourth saw Sivewright pilot his first winner when Firm Gold took over from the pace-setting Lillooet Boy down the backstretch to pull away to win by five lengths. The 10-year-old My Tom showed a distinct liking for the heavy track in the fifth over the flat mile to win by two lengths over Sean Ghalk Red Cover, after setting the early pace, finished third. Sivewright had a leg up on the winner.

Moving to the front out of the gate, J. P. Kilgour's Trip Over proved much the best of his field in the sixth to win by five lengths with Brilliant Help second and Avondale Star third. Sivewright got down with his third winner, and the second for trainer Lochead, in the seventh when he drove Little Ruler to the top entering the stretch and won by two lengths over the favored Royal Memory. Third choice Witherngowl was third.

The daily double, Bob-Jack to Gallamar, paid $72.75, while the one-two in the seventh, Little Ruler-Royal Memory, was worth $27.05.

Trip Over was claimed by Bill Lochead for $800.

Nelson Uncorks Second 66

Wood Holds Fifth Spot

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Down through Indian Canyon's rain washed gullies and up through its dripping trees Byron Nelson of Toledo golfed Friday as calmly as if he were walking down a sunlit country lane, posting his second straight 66 in the $10,000 Esmeralda open tournament.

Hot on the trail of the king of golf and his 12 under par 132 were Jack Gage, San Bernardino, Calif., and Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., with 136. Hogan matched the master's 66 yesterday and Gage, new to professional ranks, collected a 67.

In fourth spot with 70-68-138 was Harold (Jug) McSpaden of San Ford, Me., who collected an eagle two on the uphill 15th to help his card. Fred Wood of Vancouver, B.C., clubbed a 69 for a total of 139.

There were 46 qualifiers for the final 36 holes today and Sunday, with scores of 152 or better landing playoff spots.

Nelson started exactly as he

Ward New British Pro Golf Champion

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (CP) — Cpl. Charley Ward of the R.A.F. won the British P.G.A. golf tournament with a 72-hole score of 298 here Friday.

Second place went to Max Faulkner, another R.A.F. corporal on leave, with an aggregate score of 299. Frank Daly of Belfast and Bill Branch of Leicester tied for third with 301.

Ward played consistently throughout the four rounds, finishing with 73-74-77-74-298, six over par for the heavy-trapped 6,852-yard layout. It was the first major tournament success for the 35-year-old corporal who comes from Birmingham.

Washington All But Out of Pennant Race

After what happened in the Yankee Stadium, Ossie Bluege and Washington's 28 ball players are about the only folks convinced the Senators are still in the pennant race.

Staggering toward Philadelphia to wind up their season with three games against the Athletics, the Senators are 1½ games behind idle Detroit, which has six to play. That isn't mathematical elimination, but it's too close for comfort.

Neither contender has won a game since Tuesday.

Washington's weary players disappointed their well-wishers in dropping both games of their bottled series in New York, losing yesterday 5 to 3, although they cuffed Bill Zuber for 12 hits. Zuber helped them along with six walks and a wild pitch, but the Nats just could not do it, although they rallied to tie at 3 to 3 after Nick Etten's had given Zuber a boost with a three-run homer in the first inning.

George Stinewiss hoisted a short homer just inside the foul line around the 295-foot mark to break the deadlock and Etten drove home the other score in the seventh off Walt Masterson, who had believed Johnny Niggeling. The veteran knuckleball artist proved an unhappy starting choice and was yanked for a pinch-hitter after yielding three runs in the first frame on two walks and Etten's clout.

Detroit now is three games ahead on the important losing side of the ledger, although each has 85 victories. Even if the Senators do snap out of it and cop all three from the Mackmen, the Bengals can nail the pennant to the Briggs Stadium flagpole by taking four of six.

CLIFT INJURED

Loss of third baseman Harland Clift for the rest of the year is another discouraging factor to the Senators. Clift was hit by a ball thrown by Wally Holoborow in pre-game batting practice and suffered a concussion.

All other clubs in the American League were idle yesterday, and only a two-night doubleheader in Philadelphia was listed in the National. The Dodgers lengthened their third-place margin over idle Pittsburgh to two full games by grabbing both ends from the cellarites, 1 to 0, and 11 to 5 behind Ralph Branca and Lee Webber.

Nations Have Part In God's Plan

Scripture: Genesis 41-44; 42:38.
By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

HAS God a plan for individuals and nations? Are the times and concerns of men and nations in God's hands, and beyond our own care and keeping? Joseph, in Old Testament history, and Paul, in New Testament history, both believed that God had a plan and purpose, both for individuals and nations; but neither of them believed this meant that we had nothing to do ourselves, or that men and nations had no part or responsibility in God's plan. The Old Testament in its history and teaching strongly stressed God's plan and purpose; but also as strongly emphasized Israel's failure to experience the realization of that purpose because of their failure as a nation to obey God's commandments and keep the covenant with Him.

Joseph believed what Paul later enunciated so clearly—that all things work together for good to those who love God—to them who are the called according to His purpose. He was convinced that he had been called by God to a place of power and influence in Egypt where he could serve others in a time of great need, and he saw all the hardships and adversities through which he had come to that place of power as parts of God's plan for his preparation. In the same way, Paul saw the outworking of God's purposes in his sufferings and persecutions, as well as in his more evident triumphs.

The story of Joseph, and of what he accomplished in Egypt in storing up grain against famine and in feeding a starving world, has particular appropriateness at a time in the postwar world when millions are hungry and ill-fed, if not actually faced with starvation. Will there be modern Josephs, who will be equal to the task of planning and achieving the resources and service that will keep millions alive?

One fear is that it may be too late to save all. Joseph looked ahead and planned a long distance in a day, nor can the ships that carry it be turned out in short-time planning. Yet, if we can prove half as efficient in planning and achieving to save life as we have been in the business of war and the destruction of life, much will be possible. Joseph worked with God, and with God's laws and forces in nature, and so must we. The world needs more planning, as well as greater production. Even when men lived close to the soil, as in Joseph's day, the danger of lean years made planning necessary; and great numbers died of starvation when no Joseph was at hand to help with stored-up food.

If that were true then, how much more is planning necessary today, when millions live away from the soil, utterly dependent on the farmers and growers and the distributors of food? Reports of great quantities of food gone to waste when it has been sadly needed reveal how greater efficiency is required. We have not yet solved all the problems in the effective handling of the world's food.

Nevertheless, the achievements that would once have been accomplished. We owe a debt of gratitude to all who work and plan that we may eat and live.

But we need Josephs, and greater Josephs; and we shall have them when modern planners realize that consecration to God's purposes makes men great.

Mrs. J. E. White of 909 Kings Road has written the City Council claiming $2,000 damages for a fall on the sidewalk on Blanshard Street, when she broke her left knee cap and her right arm.

Fred C. E. Ford, editor of the Saanich and Gulf Islands Review, will speak on "The Gulf Islands" at the Gyro Club meeting Monday.

Esquimalt Council has written the City Council informing it that the resolution requesting the restoration of improved letter-carrier delivery service was endorsed, and also that the city's harbor brief was endorsed.

Ford Motor Company of Canada has sent a questionnaire to the City Council, asking for information dealing with agriculture and industry, in order to appraise the market possibilities of the various territories in B.C.

National Union of Machinists went on record of endorsing the sending of a strong delegation to Ottawa composed of Labor-Management Veterans representatives who will press upon the federal cabinet the acceptance of the five points outlined to the provincial cabinet by the delegation as a means of cushioning the reconversion period. Choice of Thomas A. Mitchell as the C.C.L. representative was endorsed. Action of Mayor George in calling a conference of representatives of all sections of the citizens to further the project was commended.

Community Chest Funds Help Prevent Blindness

The theory that prevention is better than cure is one that is firmly held by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, and knowing the tragedy of complete blindness, the Institute will spare no money or effort to prevent blindness.

As one of the member agencies of the Community Chest, whose campaign for $83,000 is being carried on now, the Institute for the Blind will receive $2,800.

One instance of the preventive work done was the case of a six-year-old boy, youngest of a large family. The youngster was keen to start school, but when he started he found that he could not do what the other children did. The teacher informed his mother that he could not stay at school because his eyesight was so poor he could not see the pictures on the blackboard and so could not keep up with the other students.

His mother, naturally, worried, particularly as she had no funds to take the child to the eye specialists he should have, and pay bus fares in and out of town. Father was out of work most of the time because of ill-health.

Finally, she was directed to the Institute for the Blind and immediately arrangements were made to have his eyes examined by the best specialists available, glasses were provided, and transportation to and from town. Today the child is back at school, and because he is a bright youngster is rapidly catching up to the other children in his class. It is to help such children that

Independent Tory Assures 5-Way Fight In Victoria Riding

Mrs. Ellen Hart, Sooke farmer's wife, announced Friday she would be an Independent Progressive Conservative candidate in the Victoria riding.

Announcement of Mrs. Hart's candidature was made by Frank H. Davey, campaign manager for Maj. L. H. MacQueen, Independent Progressive Conservative candidate in Saanich.

Mr. Davey said Mrs. Hart had authorized him to announce her candidature and added she had taken nomination papers with her to be completed. Her campaign manager has not been appointed.

Prominent in Conservative circles for some time, Mrs. Hart, who operates with her husband the Chipperfield Farm at Sooke, took an active part in support of Sir Henry L. Drayton in Victoria in the June 11 Dominion general election.

PLEDGE COALITION SUPPORT

Meanwhile, the Victoria Progressive Conservative Association Friday night in resolutions pledged undivided support to coalition candidates and went on record as disassociating itself with the Independent nominees.

In the first resolution, presented and passed before delegates to the Tuesday night joint Progressive Conservative-Liberal nominating convention had been named, the association instructed that delegates named must support the coalition candidates.

"A small minority is manoeuvring to scrape up independent candidates and throw filth at the Conservative Party," said J. F. Johnson, who had proposed the resolution.

The important object was to maintain the coalition, said W. C. Moresby, K.C.

In a second resolution, moved by Mr. Moresby and seconded by Mrs. Johnson, the association set itself on record as deprecating nomination of Independent Progressive Conservatives, expressing dissatisfaction with such nominations, and pledging full support to Coalition candidates.

Against the suggestion from several quarters in the audience that the association had no right to interfere with anyone who wished to run for the Legislature. Other members argued that the association should take a stand and make it known.

WOMEN BACK COALITION

No support from the Victoria Women's Progressive Conservative Association was forthcoming to Mrs. Hart either.

"We are strict Coalitionists," she said. "We will not support Mrs. Hart."

"I think it would be a great pity if the party in Victoria did not support the Coalition," said Gordon Cameron, president of the Victoria Federal Progressive Conservative Association.

"My stand is that our association is wholeheartedly in support of the Coalition," said Ald. D. D. McTavish, president of the Victoria Progressive Conservative Association.

With the nomination expected at the Coalition convention Tuesday night of Premier Hart, Mrs. Nancy Hodges and W. T. Strath, K.C., nine candidates will contest the three Victoria seats. Already nominated are Mrs. Hart, R. Kerr, Labor Progressive and M. Bryce, F. Bevis and May Campbell, C.C.F.

Star at Capitol Held to Ambition

All over the world there are girls who hope and strive for acting careers.

To them, Angela Lansbury, blonde screen newcomer in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Picture of Dorian Gray," which opens Monday at the Capitol Theatre, would say, "Never give up! Hold the thought. You never know what may happen. Look at me—thousands of miles from Hollywood, in England. How would I ever get here? I simply held the thought, all the time—and here I am."

"My mother, known on the English stage as Moyna Macgill—also appearing in 'The Picture of Dorian Gray,' by the way—took me to the theatre with her when I was a baby. I was so young, I never actually saw her on the stage until I was about two—and I don't remember her then. But the atmosphere was all theatre."

Captured Jap Planes In Atlas Picture

Two captured Japanese Zeros flew again recently, their machine guns spitting at American troop formations stretched out on the desert near Palm Springs, California.

The two Jap planes were loaned to Warner Bros. after they had been studied by engineers and designers attached to the southern California aircraft industry.

They were used in the Errol Flynn picture, "Objective Burma," which comes to the Atlas on Monday. The Jap craft had been assembled from machines shot down in the Pacific theatre.

The screen's first drama of our carrier force in action, the picture tells the story of an unidentified aircraft carrier and its navy fliers who were marked as expendable in the master plan of strategy that led to the smashing victory over the Japs at Midway.

Ameche Coming to Oak Bay-Plaza

A new baritone voice, ringing loud and clear, is greeting movie audiences at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres Monday when "The Fifth Chair" arrives. The voice belongs to Don Ameche who appears in a singing waiter quartette with such talented vocalists as Fred Allen, Victor Moore and Rudy Vallee.

Ameche's harmonizing, one of the picture's most startling surprises, takes place in a nightclub sequence of the hilarious film. Jack Benny, William Bendix, Binnie Barnes, Robert Benchley and Jerry Colonna are other notables in the Jack H. Skirball production. It is a United Artists release.

She indicated this on the set during the filming of Columbia Pictures' technicolor "Tonight and Every Night," currently starring her with Janet Blair and Lee Bowman, which is coming Monday to the York Theatre, by restraining the prop man from removing the "Rusty" tag from the back of her canvas chair.

She explained that many of her friends have called her "Rusty" ever since the cognomen was applied to her in "Cover Girl," and that it seemed to fit.

CHARLES KINNEY To Stand Trial on Charge of Murder

Charles Kinney was committed Friday afternoon for trial in a higher court on a charge of murdering Phyllis Stroud on the night of Aug. 15, V.J. Day.

Preliminary hearing of the 17-year-old High School student in city police court came to an end a few minutes before 4 p.m., following cross-examination by H. W. Davey, K.C., of the final witness in the prosecution's case, Detective Angus Munro.

Magistrate H. C. Hall asked Kinney to stand and the warning was read to him.

"We have nothing to say, Your Honor," said Mr. Davey.

Kinney's commitment for trial was then ordered.

Climax of the preliminary hearing came during the last of the three sittings, when Magistrate Hall ruled that a statement allegedly made by Kinney to police on the day of his arrest was admissible in evidence.

In allowing the statement to be entered, Magistrate Hall said there was substantial evidence to indicate that it had been voluntary. Mr. Davey argued that conditions that brought about an earlier statement had not been removed, and that warnings to the accused had not been sufficient.

The statement, as read by Clerk of Court Mrs. B. L. Spence, who recorded it, was:

"Well, I didn't mean to do it. She came home about 11.25, I guess, and I called her and told her I wanted to give her something, some trinkets that she had given me to see if I could make a necklace or a bracelet for her. Then we got talking on different things and joking, and then she started talking about mum and dad. She got onto different subjects about them and then she called one of them an old fool."

"I couldn't stand that and I struck her with the flat of my hand. She must have been stunned and I dragged her over to the bed and put the cushion over her face and smothered her to death, I guess."

"I took her down to the basement and hid her in the sawdust. I didn't know what else to do with her. That is all."

SHORTHAND AS EXHIBIT

For the unusual feat of giving this statement in evidence, while carrying on her normal duties as police court clerk, and submitting to cross-examination, Mrs. Spence was allowed to remain at her desk. As City Prosecutor C. L.

Anti-Chlorinationists Look Over City's Water Sources

Members of the Anti-Chlorination League, accompanied by city health and engineering department officials and four of the city aldermen, spent Friday afternoon on the watershed from which Victoria's water supply comes, seeing for themselves if there is any possible danger of contamination of the water, and if, in view of the findings, it is necessary to continue chlorination.

In the party were Ald. J. A. Worthington, chairman of the water board, Ald. Ed Williams, Ald. F. G. Mulliner, Ald. H. M. Diggon, Harry Langley and John Day from the Anti-Chlorination League; R. H. Smith, acting city engineer; E. Gropp, sanitary inspector, and E. MacDonald, water works superintendent.

At the conclusion of the four-hour tour, the anti-chlorinationists expressed themselves as completely satisfied that no possible contamination could occur in the water while the other members of the party appeared much more skeptical.

First stop was at Japan Gulch, where the chlorination plant is situated. Mr. Langley kept careful notes of all data given, noting that four and a half pounds of chlorine is used to purify 1,000,000 gallons of water, together with eight pounds of ammonia. Approximately 9,000,000 gallons of water goes through the plant daily.

Mr. Langley commented that prior to chlorination he used to drink two quarts of water a day and now he drank less than a pint. When the party moved up to the B.C. Electric power plant at the far end of Japan Gulch reservoir, before the water goes into the chlorination plant, he took the opportunity to take a good large drink of the unchlorinated water. Ald. Mulliner joined him, but the rest of the party, after having seen how the water comes through the power plant, decided they weren't thirsty just then.

The water is tested twice a week for bacteria, and certain other tests for chlorine content are taken twice daily.

The party moved out to see the water in Japan Gulch itself, where fish and small snake-like creatures were seen swimming around in the water that used to come directly into the city's mains.

Coarse screens are over the outlet into the mains to screen out leaves, twigs and other debris that finds its way into the reservoir.

Mr. Day was keen on turning Japan Gulch into a filtration plant. He was also very interested to know what provisions had been made to pipe sewage away from the B.C. Electric plant and the caretaker's house so that it could not contaminate the water supply.

Both he and Mr. Langley badgered Mr. Smith and Ald. Williams for full explanations of the sewage system, questioning its efficacy, although Ald. Worthington and Mr. Smith assured them that both federal and provincial health authorities had carefully inspected the installation and approved it.

Mr. Day was also anxious to find some means of preventing run-off water from the hillsides from getting into Japan Gulch. However, it was pointed out to him, although he remained unconvinced, that all the city's water supply was run-off water, and if springs and direct rainfall were depended upon it would keep the city going approximately 36 hours.

He tried up lids from small catch basins, questioned Mr. Smith's statements that the run-off was not piped into the gulch, but allowed to seep in, insisted on inspecting and criticizing the sewage flush pumps.

From there the group went on to Cabin Pond, from which the water is piped down to Japan Gulch. The water in Cabin Pond is brought by ditches from the Goldstream Lakes.

After looking over Cabin Pond and inspecting the ditch which brings water from Jack Lake, when Jack Lake is not empty, they proceeded on up to look at Jack Lake.

To get there it was necessary to take a mile and a half hike across country, but they were game and tramped the distance single-file to see the almost empty lake.

There will be no water used from Jack Lake until the rains fill it up again. Mr. Day thought it would make a splendid reservoir, and had high praise for the city authorities for the way in which they had cleaned up Jack Lake. He said that on a previous visit some years ago it had been badly clogged up with fallen trees and other debris.

One Woman's Day...

By NANCY HODGES

A MOTHER'S THANKS

AMONG MY MAIL the other day I received a letter which touched me very much.

It was from a Victoria mother, thanking some unknown friends who have, from time to time, placed flowers on her only son's grave. Here it is, in part:

"I am wondering if at some time you are at a loose end for an article you could mention the R.C.A.F. plot at Royal Oak Burial Park.

"You see, we have our only son buried there and many's the time I have gone with flowers only to find that already there are wreaths and sprays on every grave."

GIVES A LIFT

MY CORRESPONDENT goes on: "I take it that relatives of other loved ones have asked that their flowers be distributed on the graves of the Air Force plot."

She is right. I made enquiries to find out the source of these fragrant tributes to the lads who lie there.

And I found that, in cases of cremation, the bereaved relatives usually ask that the flowers sent by sorrowing friends be placed on these graves—or on the Cenotaph at Parliament Square.

It is a heart-warming thought—and that it is appreciated to the full is shown by this mother.

DISTANT MOTHERS

FOR SHE GOES ON to say: "God bless them! They hardly realize what a lift it gives to a mother's heart to really know that her boy is not forgotten when the fighting ceases."

"Yesterday, Sunday, I was at the Burial Park, and really, I could have wept when I saw such beautiful flowers for each grave."

"I'm pretty certain that mothers beyond the seas would be comforted could they but know 'their own' wee plots of ground were so lovingly tended."

"Thanks to all who so kindly have flowers placed there."

KINDNESS NOT RARE

I AM MORE than glad to reprint that mother's letter. Not only for its poignant message.

But because it is well to remind ourselves that kindness and consideration still exist.

This poor old world is going through such a sorry state just now that, to read the papers, one would almost think the "milk of human kindness" had entirely dried up.

Bestiality and brutality seem to be coming to the surface, and all the latent evil passions stirred up by war are evincing themselves.

At times it makes one feel very sick. And makes one wonder if it was for this that the flower of the world's youth fought and died.

HOPEFUL SIGNS

THEN ALONG comes something like that mother's letter to hearten us up, to make us think that there are many kindly, decent people in the world.

And to make us feel that, down at the core of our civilization there is soundness and integrity and sympathy—in spite of all signs to the contrary.

So, at a time like this, that kindly gesture on the part of the donors of the flowers may mean much.

Like a stone cast into a pool, the ripples will widen and reach the hearts of many a bereaved mother in Britain, Australia and New Zealand, whose boy rests here.

AMERICAN TRIBUTE

A PROPOS OF AIR FORCE tributes, I saw a little item in an English paper the other day which might well be mentioned here.

A few weeks ago, at a little village called Freckleton, a memorial playground was dedicated on the site of one of Britain's greatest air tragedies of the war.

It was the spot where an American bomber crashed into a school building on Aug. 23, 1944, killing 61 people, including 28 children.

And that playground was built and paid for entirely by American army airmen.

AIRMEN MADE AND GAVE IT

MEN FROM THE U.S. Air Service Command's nearby base donated $10,400 for the building of the three-acre playground, and gave an additional $5,200 for its maintenance.

In addition to paying for that part of the work which had to be done by private contractors, the American airmen did most of the rest.

They built slides and "teeter-totters" and swings from salvaged airplane parts. They graded and plowed the cricket and football fields and seeded the lawns.

So that, departing from Britain, they leave behind them, not a place haunted by tragic memories.

But a place where little children can play in peaceful surroundings, in an atmosphere hallowed by memories of American gallantry, generosity and good will.

Grain

WINNIPEG (CP)—After an irregular session, rye futures closed 1 cent to 1/2 cent higher today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, with October at $1.69.

Belgium was in the export market, taking 1,000,000 bushels of oats, but no overseas trade in wheat was reported. A large quantity of barley was purchased by shippers for eastern feed houses.

The rye market advanced to seasonal highs early in the session, influenced by unfavorable harvesting weather on the prairie, but later showed declines after some selling. The close was firm.
